Dubrovnik

Dubrovnik is a historic city on the Adriatic Sea coast in the extreme south of Croatia, positioned at 42°39'N, 18°04'E at the terminal end of the Isthmus of Dubrovnik. It is one of the most prominent tourist resorts, a seaport and the center of the Dubrovnik–Neretva County. It has population of about 45,000 people. Dubrovnik is nicknamed "Pearl of the Adriatic".

The prosperity of the city of Dubrovnik has always been based on maritime trade. In the middle ages, as the Republic of Ragusa, it became the only eastern Adriatic city-state to rival Venice. Supported by its wealth and skilled diplomacy, the city achieved a remarkable level of development, particularly during the 15th and 16th centuries. Ragusa was one of the centers of the development of the Croatian language and literature, home to many notable poets, playwrights, painters, mathematicians, physicists and other scholars.

Today Dubrovnik is a tranquil tourist and cultural center hosting many musical, art and theater events year round. The annual Dubrovnik Summer Festival is a cultural event when keys of the city are given to artists who entertain Dubrovnik's population and their guests for entire month with live plays, concerts, and games.
